The National Park Service is 98 years old!

It's the National Park Service's birthday, and we hope you'll visit and help us celebrate! On August 25, 2014 the National Park Service turns 98 years old. We are waiving entrance fees to all national parks and inviting everyone to join in the festivities taking place coast-to-coast.

Theodore Roosevelt Birthplace, which is normally closed on Mondays, will open its doors to the public on August 25th with a normal operating schedule that will include a special house tour dedicated to the home's architecture and furnishings.

So, come on down and join us to wish the National Park Service a happy 98th birthday!
